Subject Index

Hearing

Nature of Hearing and its Disorders

Habilitation, Rehabilitation and Education

Use of visual feedback to treat negative intraoral air pressures of preschoolers with cochlear implants. Higgins, M. B., McCleary, E. A., & Schulte, L. 9(1), 21–35.

Language

Nature of Normal Language

Language Development

African American mothers' views of their infants' language development and language-learning environment. Hammer, C. S., & Weiss, A. L. 9(2), 126–140.

A coding system for describing conversational breakdowns in preschool children. Yont, K. M., Hewitt, L. E., & Miccio, A. W. 9(4), 300–309.

Comprehension monitoring: A developmental effect? Walters, D. B., & Chapman, R. S. 9(1), 48–54.

The development and enhancement of narrative skills in a preschool classroom: Towards a solution to clinician-client mismatch. McGregor, K. K. 9(1), 55–71.

Effect of color on developmental picture-vocabulary naming of 4-, 6-, and 8-year-old children. Barrow, I. M., Holbert, D., & Rastatter, M. P. 9(4), 310–318.

Increasing the print focus of adult-child shared book reading through observational learning. Ezell, H. K., & Justice, L. M. 9(1), 36–47.

Language Differences and Different Languages

The development and enhancement of narrative skills in a preschool classroom: Towards a solution to clinician-client mismatch. McGregor, K. K. 9(1), 55–71.

Language Disorders

Aphasia and Other Adult Language Disorders

Topic scenes in conversations with adults with right-hemisphere brain damage. Kennedy, M. R. T. 9(1), 72–86.

Language Disorders in Children

The acquisition of fricatives and affricates: Evidence from a disordered phonological system. Miccio, A. W., & Ingrisano, D. R. 9(3), 214–229.

The association of intervention receipt with speech-language profiles and social-demographic variables. Zhang, X., & Tomblin, J. B. 9(4), 345–357.

Growth of language skills in preschool children with specific language impairment: Implications for assessment and intervention. Goffman, L., & Leonard, J. 9(2), 151–161.

Language Disorders in Mental Retardation

An interactive taxonomy of mothers and children during storybook interactions. Rabidoux, P. C., & MacDonald, J. D. 9(4), 331–344.

Reading and phonological awareness in children with Down syndrome: A longitudinal study. Kay-Raining Bird, E., Cleave, P. L., & McConnell, L. 9(4), 319–330.

Assessment and Intervention

Assessment

A coding system for describing conversational breakdowns in preschool children. Yont, K. M., Hewitt, L. E., & Miccio, A. W. 9(4), 300–309.

Effect of color on developmental picture-vocabulary naming of 4-, 6-, and 8-year-old children. Barrow, I. M., Holbert, D., & Rastatter, M. P. 9(4), 310–318.
Growth of language skills in preschool children with specific language impairment: Implications for assessment and intervention. Goffman, L., & Leonard, J. 9(2), 151–161.
Intelligibility/severity measurements of prekindergarten children's speech. Gordon-Brannan, M., & Hodson, B. W. 9(2), 141–150.

Intervention

The acquisition of fricatives and affricates: Evidence from a disordered phonological system. Miccio, A. W., & Ingrisano, D. R. 9(3), 214–229.
After-school talk: The effects of materials sent home from preschool. Marvin, C. A., & A comparison of service delivery models: Effects on curricular vocabulary skills in the school setting. Throneburg, R. N., Calvert, L. K., Sturm, J. J., Paramboukas, A. A., & Paul, P. J. 9(1), 10–20.
The association of intervention receipt with speech-language profiles and social-demographic variables. Zhang, X., & Tomblin, J. B. 9(4), 345–357.
The development and enhancement of narrative skills in a preschool classroom: Towards a solution to clinician-client mismatch. McGregor, K. K. 9(1), 55–71.
Effect of color on developmental picture-vocabulary naming of 4-, 6-, and 8-year-old children. Barrow, I. M., Holbert, D., & Rastatter, M. P. 9(4), 310–318.
Enhancing children's print and word awareness through home-based parent intervention. Justice, L. M., & Ezell, H. K. 9(3), 257–269.
Growth of language skills in preschool children with specific language impairment: Implications for assessment and intervention. Goffman, L., & Leonard, J. 9(2), 151–161.

Cultural Differences

African American mothers' views of their infants' language development and language-learning environment. Hammer, C. S., & Weiss, A. L. 9(2), 126–140.

Emergent Literacy

Enhancing children's print and word awareness through home-based parent intervention. Justice, L. M., & Ezell, H. K. 9(3), 257–269.
Increasing the print focus of adult-child shared book reading through observational learning. Ezell, H. K., & Justice, L. M. 9(1), 36–47.
An interactive taxonomy of mothers and children during storybook interactions. Rabidoux, P. C., & MacDonald, J. D. 9(4), 331–344.

Phonological Disorders

Multiple oppositions: Case studies of variables in phonological intervention. Williams, A. L. 9(4), 289–299.
Multiple oppositions: Theoretical foundations for an alternative contrastive intervention approach. Williams, A. L. 9(4), 282–288.

Speech

Nature of Normal Speech

Anatomy and Physiology of the Adult Speech System

Physical examination of the rib cage wall by the speech-language pathologist. Hixon, T. J., & Hoit, J. D. 9(3), 179–196.

Speech and Voice Disorders

Articulation and Resonance Disorders

The acquisition of fricatives and affricates: Evidence from a disordered phonological system. Miccio, A. W., & Ingrisano, D. R. 9(3), 214–229.
Articulation in Beckwith-Wiedemann syndrome: Two case studies. Van Borsel, J., Morlion, B., Van Snick, K., & Leroy, J. S. 9(3), 202–213.
Intelligibility/severity measurements of prekindergarten children's speech. Gordon-Brannan, M., & Hodson, B. W. 9(2), 141–150.
Use of visual feedback to treat negative intraoral air pressures of preschoolers with cochlear implants. Higgins, M. B., McCleary, E. A., & Schulte, L. 9(1), 21–35.

Craniofacial and Other Anomalies

Articulation in Beckwith-Wiedemann syndrome: Two case studies. Van Borsel, J., Morlion, B., Van Snick, K., & Leroy, J. S. 9(3), 202–213.
Evidence that the association between hypernasality and 22q11 deletion syndrome still goes undetected: A case study. Greenberg, I. S., & Fifer, R. C. 9(3), 197–201.

Physiologically Based Speech Disorders

Articulation in Beckwith-Wiedemann syndrome: Two case studies. Van Borsel, J., Morlion, B., Van Snick, K., & Leroy, J. S. 9(3), 202–213.
Effects of pallidal stimulation on speech in three men with severe Parkinson's disease. Solomon, N. P., McKee, A. S., Larson, K. J., Nawrocki, M. D., Tuite, P. J., Eriksen, S., Low, W. C., & Maxwell, R. E. 9(3), 241–256.
Hand gestures: Perspectives and preliminary implications for adults with acquired dysarthria. Garcia, J. M., Cannito, M. P., & Dagenais, P. A. 9(2), 107–115.
A longitudinal case study of ALS: Effects of listener familiarity and proficiency on intelligibility judgments. DePaul, R., & Kent, R. D. 9(3), 230–240.
Physical examination of the rib cage wall by the speech-language pathologist. Hixon, T. J., & Hoit, J. D. 9(3), 179–196.

Stuttering and Other Fluency Disturbances

Anxiety and stuttering: Some thoughts on reading Menzies, Onslow, and Packman (1999). Bloodstein, O. 9(1), 87.
Anxiety and the anticipatory struggle hypothesis. Packman, A., Menzies, R. G., & Onslow, M. 9(1), 88–89.
Anxiety and the treatment of stuttering. Onslow, M., Menzies, R. G., & Packman, A. 9(1), 91–93.
Cause and effect in stuttering: An examination of the anticipatory struggle hypothesis. Packman, A., & Onslow, M. 9(4), 359–360.
Comments on Yaruss, LaSalle, and Conture (1998). Cordes, A. K. 9(2), 162–165.
Genes versus cognitions in stuttering: A needless dichotomy. Bloodstein, O. 9(4), 358–359.
A meta-analysis of selected studies in anxiety and stuttering: Response to Menzies et al., 1999. Attanasio, J. S. 9(1), 89–91.
Understanding stuttering in young children: A response to Cordes. Yaruss, J. S., LaSalle, L. R., & Conture, E. G. 9(2), 165–171.

Voice and Other Laryngeal Disorders

Physical examination of the rib cage wall by the speech-language pathologist. Hixon, T. J., & Hoit, J. D. 9(3), 179–196.
Use of visual feedback to treat negative intraoral air pressures of preschoolers with cochlear implants. Higgins, M. B., McCleary, E. A., & Schulte, L. 9(1), 21–35.

Assessment and Intervention

Assessment

Comments on Yaruss, LaSalle, and Conture (1998). Cordes, A. K. 9(2), 162–165.

Intelligibility/severity measurements of prekindergarten children's speech. Gordon-Brannan, M., & Hodson, B. W. 9(2), 141–150.
Physical examination of the rib cage wall by the speech-language pathologist. Hixon, T. J., & Hoit, J. D. 9(3), 179–196.
Understanding stuttering in young children: A response to Cordes. Yaruss, J. S., LaSalle, L. R., & Conture, E. G. 9(2), 165–171.

Intervention
The acquisition of fricatives and affricates: Evidence from a disordered phonological system. Miccio, A. W., & Ingrisano, D. R. 9(3), 214–229.
Effects of pallidal stimulation on speech in three men with severe Parkinson's disease. Solomon, N. P., McKee, A. S., Larson, K. J., Nawrocki, M. D., Tuite, P. J., Eriksen, S., Low, W. C., & Maxwell, R. E. 9(3), 241–256.

JOURNAL CLUBS—an effective, convenient way to continue your lifelong learning

As a responsible professional, you stay abreast of the literature as a matter of course. Time for discussions with colleagues on the latest research, cutting-edge technology, and new procedures is more difficult to come by. A Journal Club can keep you up-to-date on advances covering the broad spectrum of practice and help you translate research to your own practice setting. Earning ASHA CEUs is an added benefit of Journal Club participation.

Journal Club members make a commitment to read identified articles, meet on a regular basis, and actively participate in the group learning.

Participating in a Journal Club...

- helps you keep up with the latest developments in the field
- enhances your learning
- increases your reading retention and comprehension through group discussion and interaction
- helps you discover new ways to apply learning to practice
- allows you to direct your own learning experience by choosing, with Club members, the topics most relevant to your needs
- is a flexible way to earn ASHA CEUs close to home and at a time convenient to your busy schedule
- is fun, active, participatory learning

How to Form a Journal Club

- Recruit members for your club.
- Set a limit on the number of members.
- Schedule your first meeting.
- Plan the group's direction.
- Schedule the next meeting.
- Plan ahead.
